

JOINT DOCTORAL PROGRAM IN THE STUDY OF RELIGION

---

This PhD program is a joint venture between the University of Denver and the Iliff School of Theology. With faculty from both schools equally available for coursework and mentoring, the Joint Doctoral Program (JDP) combines the expansive opportunities of the University of Denver with the deep theological resources of the Iliff School of Theology. Coursework emphasizes interdisciplinary dialogue and research. Some of the areas that participate include the University's graduate schools of Professional Psychology, Social Work, Education and International Studies, as well as the departments of Anthropology, Art History, Communication Studies, English, Philosophy, Religious Studies, the Center for Judaic Studies, and others. This degree equips students to become scholar-teachers who are committed to addressing contemporary social and spiritual matters. Other career options include positions in religious communities, governmental and non-profit organizations, counseling centers, curators and directors of education in museums, academic technologists, and administrative positions in higher education.

You can learn more about the program on our website (<https://www.du.edu/duiliffjoint/>).